KANAVA

Socially Active

Kanava is the leading Finnish magazine in the social and cultural arena, where specialists from different fields write in-depth, yet commonly understood, articles about topics related to society, politics, economics and culture. To counter splintered, shallow journalism, Kanava offers whole stories – ingredients for wider horizons and deeper discussions.

SEURA

Contemporary Classic, Finger on the Pulse

In its pages, Seura offers weekly – and at seura.fi, daily – diverse reading material for both women and men: high-quality topical articles and reports, as well as relaxing entertainment, true stories, history, science and nature, travel and food articles all within one cover. Seura's readers are particularly interested in health and well-being, cooking, science and nature, baking, recipes, nature and hiking, literature and culture, travel, holiday cottages and gardening. They enjoy reading the magazine for a full 78 minutes, and also have a positive attitude towards commercial messages. Seura.fi readers are urban dwellers of an active age, who are hooked on the magazine's well-researched articles on society, politics, the economy, events, topical issues, stories about ordinary people and health. Seura.fi also contains reliable health and beauty articles by Kotilääkäri (home doctor) and Viva's articles on retirement, the economy and domestic technology.

* No cutting wastage added to the sizes

Print sizes are clean cut sizes to which 5 mm of cutting wastage must be added. Text and other essential elements (frame, logo, image, etc.) may not be placed any closer than 5 mm to the cutting line on the side.

Ads without margins: the ad continues to the side of the page. Elements (images and background) must extend 5 mm over the page edge (cutting wastage). In the materials, frames may not be placed on the page cutting. Don't place text, logos and other such elements any closer than 5 mm from the cut edge of the page.

Ads with margins: a white margin will be left between the advertisement and page edge. For example, material with frames will be made in this size.

Various inserts

- An insert activates the reader to act; it gets high attention value and can be targeted locally.
- When you are planning to use an insert, contact the magazine's media service.
- The printing houses' contact people help with questions related to the editing of inserts.

Stapled inserts

A stapled insert can be placed in the centre-fold or between sheets at the top edge of the product. The insert can have 4 pages or more and its format can, at the maximum, be of the same size as the magazine.

Inserts the size of the product

The insert cannot be bigger than the magazine. If the insert has folding edges, the cover element with edges must be at least 10 mm narrower than the product. The folding insert edge must not be closer than 10 mm from the insert's back fold. If the folding edge is 105 mm wide or narrower, it is attached using a drop of glue.

Inserts smaller than the product

Inserts that are narrower than the product must have clean-cut sides. If the insert is both narrower and shorter than the product, the cutting wastage is on the upper side. If the insert has folding edges, the cover element with edges must be at least 10 mm narrower than the product. The folding insert edge must not be closer than 12 mm from the insert's back fold. If the folding edge is 105 mm wide or narrower, it is attached using a drop of glue.

Gatefold cover

A gate-fold cover is a magazine front cover that opens in the middle. The advertiser's message is under the opening cover, including the edges that open to the side. The edges must overlap by at least 10 mm. Ask your contact person for more detailed printer-specific instructions.

Tip-in insert

A tip-in insert can be a loose card, envelope/ bag or a brochure (2-48 pages) placed inside the magazine.

Inserts for adhesive-bound magazines

A spine-glued insert can be an advertisement with two or more pages. Perforating for detaching is also possible. Spot-glued and tip-in inserts can also be used.

6-page cover insert

The additional page of the cover insert can be folded inside the front or back cover. The cover width of most Otavamedia's publications is 230 mm or 217 mm. The back or front cover is as wide as the magazine, depending on the location of the additional page. When the additional page is on the inside of the front or back cover, the cover width is 5 mm narrower than the cover page. On the inside of the front or back cover, the width of the additional page is 10 mm narrower than the cover page. Sizes for adhesive-bound magazines are given separately.

Glue drop insert

A glue drop insert is attached inside the magazine with adhesive. The insert can be a card, envelope, an advertisement with several pages, or a product sample bag. The insert must be flexible and its maximum weight is 25 g. The adhesive is always spread in the same direction as the stapling. If the insert has a back fold, it will primarily be placed in the same direction as the bottom edge of the magazine.

Product sample inserts

A product sample can be attached inside a magazine with a glue drop or attached to a foil-wrapped magazine. Discuss foiling schedules as well as authority regulations related to product samples with our media services.

Foiling

Foil-wrapped magazines can include product samples, catalogues, targeted direct marketing campaigns or even all of these. The foiling schedule must always be agreed on separately with our media services.
